OFFICIAL PUBLICATION OF THE UTAH PHARMACEUTICAL ASSOCIATION

Julie Jacoby presents Utah's Veteran Pharmacists highest award to her father Bernard A. Jacoby at annual UPhA meet May 23 in Park City.

DISTINGUISHED PHARMACIST CITATION

Tribute by Walter Boyden

This year's Distinguished Pharmacist completed the prerequisite for membership in the Utah Veteran Pharmacists (a most elite society), eight years ago after 35 years of public service.

Characteristically our man has just a bit of the "maverick" in him — in that his Alma Mater is the University of Idaho. On the "plus" side, he soon made amends and has been an active supporting and participating member of the Utah Pharmaceutical Association for the past 31 years; indeed, since 1936.

He faced and solved many a "Thorny" problem while managing a pharmacy in a southern suburb of Salt Lake City that was the lair of many "Cougars" and on road-maps of the period was designated as Provo. During this "white and blue" period in his life, he was obviously well in gear — because he was tapped for the Rotary Club.

Later, the sound of war drums and far-off smoke signals of the northeast beckoned toward a new frontier. It was "the call of the wild" and he promptly struck his wickie-up, hitched his wife Agnes to the birch-pole travois and headed for Ute country along the Duchesne, and the Strawberry.

It didn't take the local natives long to realize a Big Chief with good medicine was a member of the tribe. He never spoke with "forked tongue," and before he could say "How!" his name appeared on the deerhide bearing the list of Charter Members of the Lions Club.

Not too many moons passed . . . and he was elected mayor.

Perhaps instead of the Distinguished Pharmacist Award, he should at this time be receiving an Oscar For The Best Direction, because he has served two years as Director of Civil Defense for Duchesne County; two years as Director of the County Fair, and one year as President of the Fair Board.

The man we now honor is indeed a familiar face to many a Drug Company Representative, for the men with the detail dogs have bought him one-heck-of-a-lot-of-Coca-Cola-and-lunch during the many years he was purchasing agent for the County Hospital Board.

Eventually he gave up those free goodies for glory, and in the end become President of that same Hospital Board.

Came the time he decided that his pharmacy was just one of many ways he could serve his community . . . so he combined the Rx's with the Three R's . . . and for the past twenty-one years has served as a member of the County Board of Education. He has faithfully served that august panel for five separate terms as its president.

Always doing things in a logical manner as befits a scientist, he then served his state as Third Vice President of the Utah State Board of Education, then as Second Vice President, then First Vice President, and finally as President.

In counting coup, as good Indians and Pharmacists occasionally do, if the aforementioned "trials-by-combat" do not prove to the satisfaction of all Utah Veteran Pharmacists that our man is an extremely well coordinated individual, public servant, educator, and pharmacist-member-of-the-greatest-health-team-in-the-world. . . . Then we hurriedly add that he has also served two years as a member of the Utah State Coordinating Council.

To Pharmacist Bernard Augustine Jacoby of Duchesne; to a man who is a genuine credit to the profession of pharmacy; to a dedicated citizen who isn't afraid to "get involved"; to our great and good friend from Eastern Utah's Uintah Basin, goes the Veteran Pharmacists' 1967 Distinguished Service Award.
